

8th Largest Bank in World Opening Operations in Russia. It's Chinese.

We told you this sanction thing wasn't going to work...

By Global Research News

Global Research, October 12, 2014
Russia Insider 10 October 2014

Region: Asia, Russia and FSU

Theme: Global Economy

In-depth Report: UKRAINE REPORT

The Russian newspaper Kommersant reported yesterday that the Agricultural Bank of China is starting operations in Russia.

This is a big deal, because this bank is huge, the eighth largest in the world.

It's a sign of how quickly China will be able to fill the financing vacuum left by sanction, and an example of European companies losing markets to Chinese competitors.

It is also a sign that China is seriously interested in investing in Russia's enormous unrealized agriculture potential. China, a net food importer, has been scooping up agricultural deals around the world, competing for scarce crop lands.

Expect to see increased Chinese investment in Russian agriculture.

The original source of this article is Russia Insider

Copyright © Global Research News, Russia Insider, 2014

Comment on Global Research Articles on our Facebook page

Become a Member of Global Research

Articles by: Global Research News

Disclaimer: The contents of this article are of sole responsibility of the author(s). The Centre for Research on Globalization will not be responsible for any inaccurate or incorrect statement in this article. The Centre of Research on Globalization grants permission to cross-post Global Research articles on community internet sites as long as the source and copyright are acknowledged together with a hyperlink to the original Global Research article. For publication of Global Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: publications@globalresearch.ca www.globalresearch.ca contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of "fair use" in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than "fair use" you must request permission from the copyright owner.

For media inquiries: publications@globalresearch.ca

