

After Romania And Poland, U.S. Recruits Bulgaria For Missile Shield

U.S. to discuss Bulgarian missile shield role: PM

By Global Research

Global Research, February 12, 2010

Reuters 12 February 2010

Region: Russia and FSU

Theme: Militarization and WMD

SOFIA - Washington will hold preliminary talks with the Bulgarian government on hosting parts of a U.S. missile shield, Bulgarian Prime Minister Boiko Borisov said on Friday.

Asked whether Bulgaria — a NATO and European Union member — would accept the U.S. plan, Borisov said Sofia should show solidarity.

“This is not a decision that will be taken only by me,” Borisov told reporters. “We are waiting replies from the European Commission and from the Bulgarian parliament.”

He added: “My opinion is that we have to show solidarity. When you are a member of NATO, you have to work for the collective security.”

The expected talks with Sofia are part of a revamped U.S. missile defense approach taken by President Barack Obama since he scrapped a Bush-era plan for a radar site and interceptor rockets in the Czech Republic and Poland.

Last week, Bulgaria’s neighbor and fellow NATO member, Romania, said its top defense body had approved Washington’s plan to deploy interceptor missiles.

A State Department spokesman said the facilities were due to become operational by 2015 and were aimed at defending against “current and emerging ballistic missile threats from Iran.” He repeated that the new strategy should not worry Moscow.

Russia sees the plan as a threat to its own nuclear arsenal and has bristled at what it sees as U.S. meddling in its sphere of influence. Most of Eastern Europe was part of the Moscow-led Warsaw Pact during the Cold War.

U.S. Ambassador to Sofia James Warlick told a public event on Friday that Washington had already discussed the issue unofficially with Bulgaria, Focus news agency reported.

Warlick said initial talks were also held with other countries in the region and he hoped for a positive outcome from the expected negotiations with Bulgaria’s center-right government. He did not give other details.

The new government, elected last July, is eager to prove its loyalty to its Western partners and improve Bulgaria’s image, tarnished by the previous administration’s failure to tame rampant corruption and crime.

Last month, Sofia approved a request from Washington to accept a detainee being released from the U.S. prison camp at Guantanamo Bay in Cuba, and decided to send 100 more soldiers to bolster its 500-strong contingent in Afghanistan this year.

Reporting by Tsvetelia Tsoleva and Anna Mudeva, editing by Mark Trevelyan

The original source of this article is Reuters
Copyright © Global Research, Reuters, 2010

Comment on Global Research Articles on our Facebook page

Become a Member of Global Research

Articles by: Global Research

Disclaimer: The contents of this article are of sole responsibility of the author(s). The Centre for Research on Globalization will not be responsible for any inaccurate or incorrect statement in this article. The Centre of Research on Globalization grants permission to cross-post Global Research articles on community internet sites as long the source and copyright are acknowledged together with a hyperlink to the original Global Research article. For publication of Global Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: publications@globalresearch.ca www.globalresearch.ca contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of "fair use" in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than "fair use" you must request permission from the copyright owner.

For media inquiries: publications@globalresearch.ca