

Global Research: An Antidote to Isolation?

By The Global Research Team

Global Research, October 20, 2020

Dear Readers,

As the modern day world grows more and more isolated in both a literal and a figurative manner, the view points we put forth are not selected in the interest of pushing a specific narrative, but rather in breaking down walls and building a dialogue. We believe that dialogue is imperative for change to occur, especially within the context of the current global crisis. We publish pieces by a wide variety of specialists including journalists and scholars, political analysts and historians, ex-military and intelligence personnel, doctors, scientists and environmental experts, to name but a few.

Our team works tirelessly day in, day out, to promote articles by renowned experts as well as young up and coming writers. The diversity of topics covered coupled with our ever-growing list of contributing authors from all over the globe truly make Global Research a unique resource worth preserving.

To ensure the longevity of Global Research, we need your help! Our content will always be free, but your donations and membership subscriptions are essential to the functioning of our website. Free content involves some very real costs. We cannot meet these costs without your support. Please click below to make a donation or become a member now.

We understand that times are tough for everyone. If you would like to help out but cannot make a financial contribution, please see below for details on becoming a Global Research Volunteer...

With measures being put in place to reduce our reach (such as tacit online censorship of independent media) there are a number of ways you can help us make sure that the questions we ask continue to be heard:

Stay Informed about What They Don't Want You to Know: Support Global Research

- Establish an email list of some fifty friends and family and forward the Global Research Newsletter and/or your favourite Global Research articles to this list on a daily basis.
- Use the various instruments of online posting and social media creatively to “spread the word”. Click the “like” and “share” buttons on our article pages for starters.
- Post one or more Global Research articles to internet discussion groups and blogs to build a dialogue around the subject matters we cover.
- Do you have friends who would benefit from our articles? Consider signing them up for our daily newsletter.
- Are you part of a community group or organized discussion group? Submit a topic we have covered or a specific article from our website for discussion at your next meeting.

WE THANK YOU FOR SUPPORTING INDEPENDENT MEDIA!
