

Antisemitism, Islamophobia and Britain's National Security

By Hans Stehling

Global Research, March 06, 2019

Region: Europe

Theme: History

The issue that needs official investigation regarding both Antisemitism and Islamophobia, is the link to a foreign embassy in London that seeks to exert undue influence over Britain's legislature through its lobbyists at Westminster.

This is not only a threat against government but a very real danger both to Britain's national security and our democratic institutions by attempting to subvert our representatives in both Houses of Parliament.

Any lobbyist or individual, in Britain, who is clearly acting in the interests of a foreign power should be registered as a 'foreign agent' and his/her activities strictly monitored'. That is only common sense. You wouldn't allow a fox to roam free in your family home.

The problem is how to enact legislation to neutralise the threat when some legislators themselves are currently an (albeit reluctant) part of that threat?

One answer might be to require all Members of Parliament to swear a new oath of allegiance to the Crown and Nation, to the clear exclusion of any foreign state, and to make the breaking of that oath a treasonable offence, i.e. criminal disloyalty.

These are dangerous times when so-called claimed democracies, (usually nuclear-weaponised), are headed by corrupt politicians and their families. We must not allow Britain to go the same way. Our grandfathers gave their lives in two world wars that we and our children, of whatever faith, should live as free men in a free, just and independent society. A democratic society based on human and civil rights together with national security as the primary imperative. These ideals are now in obvious danger, in Britain, today.

*

Note to readers: please click the share buttons below. Forward this article to your email lists. Crosspost on your blog site, internet forums. etc.

Hans Stehling (pen name) is an analyst based in the UK. He is a frequent contributor to Global Research.

The original source of this article is Global Research
Copyright © Hans Stehling, Global Research, 2019

Comment on Global Research Articles on our Facebook page

Become a Member of Global Research

Articles by: Hans Stehling

Disclaimer: The contents of this article are of sole responsibility of the author(s). The Centre for Research on Globalization will not be responsible for any inaccurate or incorrect statement in this article. The Centre of Research on Globalization grants permission to cross-post Global Research articles on community internet sites as long the source and copyright are acknowledged together with a hyperlink to the original Global Research article. For publication of Global Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: publications@globalresearch.ca www.globalresearch.ca contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of "fair use" in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than "fair use" you must request permission from the copyright owner.

For media inquiries: publications@globalresearch.ca