

Biden's Plan to Deploy Federal Teams in Door-to-Door COVID Vaccine Campaign Sparks Backlash

The Biden administration's plan to ramp up efforts to get more Americans vaccinated against COVID by "literally knocking on doors" has sparked backlash.

By Megan Redshaw

Global Research, July 08, 2021

Children's Health Defense 7 July 2021

Region: USA

Theme: Police State & Civil Rights, Science and Medicine

All Global Research articles can be read in 51 languages by activating the "Translate Website" drop down menu on the top banner of our home page (Desktop version).

Visit and follow us on Instagram at @crg_globalresearch.

President Joe Biden on Tuesday announced plans to ramp up the federal government's efforts to get more Americans vaccinated against COVID under a new program that includes "literally knocking on doors," as Biden puts it.

Speaking from the White House two days after the federal government fell short of its goal of having 70% of adults get their first COVID shot by July 4, Biden said:

"So, please get vaccinated now. It works. It's free. And it's never been easier, and it's never been more important. Do it now — for yourself and the people you care about; for your neighborhood; for your country. It sounds corny, but it's a patriotic thing to do."

According to data from the CDC, more than 67% of American adults have received at least one shot and more than 157 million are fully vaccinated.

Under the new program, Biden said the White House will deploy teams of officials from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), Federal Emergency Management Administration and other federal health agencies.

The Biden administration developed a state, county and sub-state level predictions map of hesitancy rates using the most recently available federal survey data.

Summer offensive

Carrot offerings and stick planning

County-level geospatial intelligence

Biden Admin Creates 'Vaccine Hesitancy' Map To Help Activists Target Vaccine Skeptics Door To Door <https://t.co/BhqHqf6zj0> pic.twitter.com/GS5Et15Eoz

— Jon Rappoport (@jonrappoport) July 1, 2021

Biden suggested the unique door-knocking approach was needed now that “we are continuing to wind down the mass vaccination sites that did so much in the spring.”

The program also will make the vaccine available in more healthcare settings, and will provide more assistance to thousands of pharmacies, doctor’s offices and other medical facilities so they can distribute vaccines, Biden said. Vaccines will also be doled out at sporting events, summer events and religious activities, he added.

Biden said the administration will “step up efforts to get vaccines to your family doctors and other doctors who serve younger people so that adolescents ages 12 to 18 can get vaccinated and — as they go for back-to-school check-ups or getting ready for their physicals they need for fall sports,” Biden said.

Biden cited concerns over the COVID Delta variant, which he said is more transmissible and has forced some European countries to return to lockdowns.

The president did not mention any of the safety concerns previously noted by the CDC and U.S. Food and Drug Administration, including blood clots and heart inflammation, associated with the vaccines.

White House Press Secretary Jen Psaki, in a briefing earlier in the day, said efforts would continue to convince vaccine holdouts, but she ruled out any federal mandates for now.

The administration will first target communities with lower vaccination rates, Psaki said. The door-to-door outreach efforts will get information about vaccines to people who haven’t received them yet.

In addition to the door-to-door information campaign, Psaki said other measures would include a “renewed emphasis on getting the vaccines to more primary care doctors,” and increasing access for workers at job sites.

“You don’t just give up just because you haven’t reached every single person,” Psaki told reporters. “We’re going to continue to apply ... what we’ve seen have been the best practices over the past several months.”

Plan sparks backlash

Children’s Health Defense Chairman Robert F. Kennedy, Jr., criticized the plan, saying it would “accomplish nothing beyond making Americans fear and despise their government.”

Kennedy said:

“It’s a foreboding fork in the road to totalitarianism. We are now moving beyond the propaganda stage into this very coercive program where federal agents appear at American homes with the menacing message: ‘We know who you are and where you live. We have you on our list, we have your medical records, we want your neighbors to know that you are dangerous. We don’t recognize your property or privacy rights. You must take our untested, experimental pharmaceutical product. If you want to end this harassment, you must submit to a risky medical intervention made by an unscrupulous company with no liability and if you die or suffer permanent neurological injury, tough luck!”

Biden’s announcement also sparked backlash on Twitter.

Sen. Rand Paul (R-Ky.) tweeted:

No.

The gov't doesn't decide who gets vaccinated. You do.

Do not submit to the fearmongers. <https://t.co/NDCRUE3wCV>

— Senator Rand Paul (@RandPaul) July 7, 2021

Texas Attorney General Ken Paxton chimed in, tweeting:

Not on my watch! <https://t.co/wGaSZelWiq>

— Attorney General Ken Paxton (@KenPaxtonTX) July 6, 2021

One physician tweeted:

If the “new normal” is federal employees knocking on your door about medical procedures, you better be ready to fight like hell for the “old” normal.

— Scott Jensen (@drscottjensen) July 7, 2021

Nearly three in 10 Americans (29%) say they are not likely to get vaccinated, including 20% who said they will definitely not do so, according to a Washington Post-ABC News poll published last week. The 29% who said they are unlikely to get a vaccine is an increase over the 24% who said the same thing in April.

*

Note to readers: Please click the share buttons above or below. Follow us on Instagram, @crg_globalresearch. Forward this article to your email lists. Crosspost on your blog site, internet forums. etc.

Featured image is from CHD

The original source of this article is Children's Health Defense
Copyright © Megan Redshaw, Children's Health Defense, 2021

Comment on Global Research Articles on our Facebook page

Become a Member of Global Research

Articles by: Megan Redshaw

Disclaimer: The contents of this article are of sole responsibility of the author(s). The Centre for Research on Globalization will not be responsible for any inaccurate or incorrect statement in this article. The Centre of Research on Globalization grants permission to cross-post Global Research articles on community internet sites as long the source and copyright are acknowledged together with a hyperlink to the original Global Research article. For publication of Global Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: publications@globalresearch.ca www.globalresearch.ca contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of "fair use" in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than "fair use" you must request permission from the copyright owner.

For media inquiries: publications@globalresearch.ca