

Bloomberg News Blames Putin for Russia's Economic Problems

By Eric Zuesse

Global Research, December 19, 2014

Region: Russia and FSU, USA

Theme: Global Economy

On December 17th, Bloomberg News bannered "Putin's Secret Gamble on Reserves Backfires Into Currency Crisis" and reported that,

"As President Putin exulted at the Winter Olympics in Sochi 10 months ago, aides assured him Russia was rich enough to withstand the financial repercussions from a possible incursion into Ukraine, according to two officials involved in the talks. That conclusion now looks like a grave miscalculation. Russia has driven interest rates to punishing levels and spent at least $87 billion, or 17 percent, of its foreign-exchange reserves trying to prevent a collapse in the ruble from spiraling into a panic. So far, nothing has worked."

The team of three Bloomberg news reporters write there that, "Putin now confronts the nation's most serious economic crisis since 1998," and that the reason is "Putin's pride." They say that, "When rising crude prices were firing the economy, Russia's swelling reserves became a symbol of economic might and a point of pride for Putin."

This pride by Putin, they assert, came to the fore when he discussed in February with his advisors the following question: "Could Russia afford the economic blowback from taking over Crimea?"

Bloomberg reports that Putin then "was told Russia had enough foreign currency reserves to annex Crimea and withstand any sanctions that might follow." This, they say, was the "grave miscalculation" that "emboldened Putin to annex Crimea," and that in "Russia has driven interest rates to punishing levels."

Their news report does not say anything about the United States coup d'etat in Ukraine that was occurring at the same time as that, when Crimeans, who had voted overwhelmingly for the Ukrainian President whom the U.S. was now overthrowing, were publicly demonstrating against the overthrow, and were pleading for Crimea, which Nikita Krushchev had donated from Russia to Ukraine in 1954, to be taken back into the Russian fold by Russia and no longer associated with Ukraine. Also, nothing is said in this Bloomberg news report about two Gallup polls which were taken in Crimea, one in 2013 before the coup, and the other in 2014 after the coup, with Crimeans both times overwhelmingly self-identifying as being "Russians" and neither "Crimeans" nor "Ukrainians," and in which they overwhelmingly approved of Russia, and disapproved of the United States. Also, nothing is said there about Russia's Black Sea Fleet, which the U.S.-installed coup-government wanted to kick out, but which had been based in Crimea ever since 1783, and which has always been crucial to Russia's military defense and strategy. This Bloomberg news report deals strictly with Putin's "pride" and his "miscalculation," which caused him to decide for an "incursion into Ukraine" whose aim was "taking over Crimea."

Other news headlines on December 17th from Bloomberg News included these:

"Putin's Economic System Frays Further"

"Stunned Russians Stock Up on Goods Awaiting Putin Fix for Ruble"

"Putin Paints a Beseiged Russia, Says U.S. Wants to 'Rip Out Its Teeth and Claws'"

"Russia Seen Spending Further $70 Billion to Fight Ruble Rout"

"Russian Tourists Get Stuck Holding Rubles From Berlin to London"

"Obama's Unambiguous Message to Putin About Cuba: We Win and You Lose."

You'll find the latest headlines from Bloomberg News here.

Investigative historian Eric Zuesse is the author, most recently, of They're Not Even Close: The Democratic vs. Republican Economic Records, 1910-2010, and of CHRIST'S VENTRILOQUISTS: The Event that Created Christianity.

The original source of this article is Global Research
Copyright © Eric Zuesse, Global Research, 2014

Comment on Global Research Articles on our Facebook page

Become a Member of Global Research

Articles by: Eric Zuesse

About the author:

Investigative historian Eric Zuesse is the author, most recently, of They're Not Even Close: The Democratic vs. Republican Economic Records, 1910-2010, and of CHRIST'S VENTRILOQUISTS: The Event that Created Christianity.

Disclaimer: The contents of this article are of sole responsibility of the author(s). The Centre for Research on Globalization will not be responsible for any inaccurate or incorrect statement in this article. The Centre of Research on Globalization grants permission to cross-post Global Research articles on community internet sites as long the source and copyright are acknowledged together with a hyperlink to the original Global Research article. For publication of Global Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: publications@globalresearch.ca www.globalresearch.ca contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of "fair use" in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than "fair use" you must request permission from the copyright owner.

For media inquiries: publications@globalresearch.ca