

BP: The Unfinished Tale of Imperialism

By Frederic F. Clairmont

Global Research, May 13, 2010

13 May 2010

Region: USA

Theme: Crimes against Humanity,
Environment, Oil and Energy

In-depth Report: THE BP OIL SLICK

In the light of BP's crime against humanity committed in the the Gulf of Mexico, it is well to remember the sordid historical role of BP and its earlier incarnation as the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

This company was the apogee of imperialist rapacity and we should not forget the judgment of Iran's president Dr. Mossadeq at the time of the Abadan Crisis, Its story is littered with blood and unbounded exploitation. Its victims of which Iran is but one glaring example knew nothing of the scale of its financial swindles. Its corporate balance sheet was the Big Lie writ large.

The entire corporate and accounting structure was a vast machine of lies. BP moved hand in hand with the British government. Among its biggest shareholders was Churchill and the British Royal Family. that harked back to the pre-1914 dqa. No one except its cabal of gangsterofficialdom knew how much oil it extracted from the bowels of our planet. Listen to the charge sheet of the moderate nationalist that was Dr Mossadeq in 1950.

Let us be clear, Dr Mossadeq was a political moderate who was not seeking the expropriation of the A I O C but merely a larger share of of the petroleum dollar. But even that species of reformism was wholly unacceptable. The unbending position of BP and its ;political cronies was similar to that of a leading US oil magnate in Venezuela in 1951:

"Here in Venezuela you have the right to do what you like with your capital. This right is dearer to me than all the p;olitical rights in the world" [Quoted inn TIME 21 September 1952.]

And that we might ad was in the aftermath of a succesful military coup that guaranteed unlimited market and ownership rights to the oil giants.

"The petroleum industry " notes Dr Mossadeq at the moment of the Abadan crisis has done nothing for the well-being of my country. The evidence for that statement is that , after 50 years of exploitation by a foreign oil company . we still do not have enough Iranian technicians and must call in foreign experts...The Iranian government is determined to use this vital resources, which is part of our national patrimony, to raise its standard of living..." True, but imperialism, then as now, has never been concerned with raising 'living standards'. Rather the alpha and omega of its raison d'etre is is the vampire-like extraction of of mega profits for an exiguous class of largely-white-skinned parasites.

Neither the British government nor the US Corporate military Gulag could tolerate a change in Iranian policy. The Iranian government was overthrown and we know the role of the CIA and the British government in this act of state terrorism: that is part of the familiar historical record. Tens of thousands died in the counter-revolutionary bloodbath that followed.

Emphasising the political aspects posed by foreign investments in Iran before the UN Security Council, Dr Mossadeq charged:[Minutes, UN Security Council , 15 October 1951]

“It went without saying that as long as a company as the former Anglo-Iranian Oil Company [which subsently re-baptized itself as BP or British Petroleum] had a monopoly over this source of wealth, the government and people of Iran could not enjoy political independence. Despite its business facade, this company is to be considered as the modern counterpart of the old East India Company, which, in a short period extended its control over India. The former Anglo-Iranian Oil Company had an annual income exceeding that of the Iranian government; the same was true of its imports and exports; it intervened actively in the internal affairs of the country, and threw its weight about in elections to the Majlis and the formation of cabinets, acting in a manner calculated to wring the greatest profits from resources under its control. By a complex organization network within the country, by corruption of government ministries, and the illegal support to native journalists and politicians, it had in fact, created a State within a State, and little by little it sapped the independence of the Iranian nation.”

This is the blueprint of imperial genocide. seen in the stricken soul of one of its victims.

This damning indictment of one of the greatest criminal corporations of all times has never been more succinctly portrayed.

Today BP is not merely extracting its super profits for a handful of mega parasites, it is destroying our fragile planet, our peoples and its fauna and flora on a scale unprecedented in history.

The crimes of BP unmasks the face of imperialism in all its nakedness and no less the bankruptcy of capitalism and its ideological peddlers.

The original source of this article is Global Research
Copyright © Frederic F. Clairmont, Global Research, 2010

Comment on Global Research Articles on our Facebook page

Become a Member of Global Research

Articles by: Frederic F. Clairmont

Disclaimer: The contents of this article are of sole responsibility of the author(s). The Centre for Research on Globalization will not be responsible for any inaccurate or incorrect statement in this article. The Centre of Research on Globalization grants permission to cross-post Global Research articles on community internet sites as long the source and copyright are acknowledged together with a hyperlink to the original Global Research article. For publication of Global Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: publications@globalresearch.ca www.globalresearch.ca contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of "fair use" in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than "fair use" you must request permission from the copyright owner.

For media inquiries: publications@globalresearch.ca