

Election Fraud in America: Are Republicans and Democrats Benefiting from False “Free and Fair” Elections?

President Carter: Bush Didn't Win in 2000

By Washington's Blog

Global Research, November 06, 2016

Washington's Blog

Region: USA

In-depth Report: U.S. Elections

This article which is of utmost relevance to US Elections 2016 was first published in April 2014.

Many commentators – including both liberal and conservative Supreme Court justices such as Sandra Day O'Connor – believe that the Supreme Court wrongfully threw the election to Bush. Many have called it the “worst Supreme Court decision in history”.

Liberals also believe that the “Brooks Brothers Riot” against the recount was a dirty trick by high-level Republican operatives (and see this):

4. Kevin Smith, former house republican Conference analyst
5. Steven Brody, Former aide to Sen. Fred D. Thompson (R-Tenn)
6. Matt Schlapp, Bush Campaign Staff, Austin
7. Roger Morse, Aide to Rep. Van Hilleary (R-Tenn)
8. Duane Gibson, Aide to Chairman Don Young (R-Alaska)

3. Rory Cooper,
staff member,
National Republican Congressional Committee

2. Garry
Malphrus,
Majority Chief
Council

9. Chuck Royal,
Assistant to Rep.
Jim Demint
(R-SC)

10. Layna
McConkey,
Former legislative assistant to former
Rep. Jim Ross
Lightfoot (R-Iowa)

1. Tom Pyle, office of House Majority Whip Tom Delay (R-Tex)

But the elephant in the room which most Democrats refuse to consider is election fraud. This is odd, given that there is substantial evidence that election fraud has been widespread in the U.S. in recent years.

Why won't they admit that election fraud is widespread?

Perhaps because they benefit from the false appearance of free and fair elections. As Sonoma State University and Project Censored Director Peter Phillips noted in 2005:

There is little doubt key Democrats know that votes in 2004 and earlier elections were stolen. The fact that few in Congress are complaining about fraud is an indication of the totality to which both parties accept the status quo of a money based elections system. Neither party wants to further undermine public confidence in the American “democratic” process (over 80 millions eligible voters refused to vote in 2004).... Future elections in the US will continue as an equal opportunity for both parties to maintain a national democratic charade in which money counts more than truth.

A more cynical view: the Democratic “leadership” may simply hope to be able to outspend the Republicans in the election fraud arm’s race.

The original source of this article is Washington's Blog
Copyright © Washington's Blog, Washington's Blog, 2016

Comment on Global Research Articles on our Facebook page

Become a Member of Global Research

Articles by: Washington's Blog

Disclaimer: The contents of this article are of sole responsibility of the author(s). The Centre for Research on Globalization will not be responsible for any inaccurate or incorrect statement in this article. The Centre of Research on Globalization grants permission to cross-post Global Research articles on community internet sites as long the source and copyright are acknowledged together with a hyperlink to the original Global Research article. For publication of Global Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: publications@globalresearch.ca www.globalresearch.ca contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of "fair use" in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than "fair use" you must request permission from the copyright owner.
For media inquiries: publications@globalresearch.ca