

Global Research Under Censorship: Six Things to Do to Win Our Battle for Truth

By The Global Research Team

Global Research, January 14, 2025

2024 was a bumpy ride for Global Research largely attributable to censorship: our readership took a nosedive, our newsletters saw lesser engagements.

Our video productions with subtiles in several languages with Rumble -which are not the object of censorship- are now reaching a large international readership.

Despite all these challenges, still, we are very happy to have turned another page in our publication.

This 2025, we hope for better days and particularly aim for the following:

- increased overall readership, and
- more visible online presence.

We are embarrassed to ask anything, especially financially, from you our dear readers, but censorship has placed us in troubled waters. We need YOU to keep this online publication up and running.

Here are six things that you can do to help us win our battle for truth:

1. Forward GR newsletter via email and other communication apps,
2. Share your favorite GR articles on social media and discussion groups,
3. Crosspost/repost GR articles on your blogs/websites,
4. Encourage people to sign up for our daily newsletter (free of charge),
5. Make a donation to help us meet our operational costs, and/or
6. Become a member and receive complimentary eBooks.
