

Global Research Needs Your Help To Curb Disinformation

By The Global Research Team

Global Research, March 03, 2020

Curbing the tide of disinformation being pumped out by powerful and well-funded mainstream media is a considerable and costly challenge. Global Research operates on a shoe-string budget and does not accept funding from outside sources. This allows us to maintain complete independence in terms of what we decide to publish, but also means that without our reader's support we would sink.

Our reader feedback has been an invaluable source of encouragement, motivation, and growth. But Global Research also needs your financial support and help. If you value the coverage we bring you on a daily basis, free of charge, please consider making a donation or becoming a member by clicking below:
