

If There Was Ever a Time for Peace — It's Now

By Global Research and Global Research

Global Research, December 17, 2012

2012 is quickly drawing to a close, and while many celebrate the season with family and friends, the war machine maintains its imperial depravity with total disregard for humanity and an insatiable appetite for power and profit. And big media lends it credibility because morally bankrupt leaders and institutions of power keep them on their payroll. It's a vicious cycle that leaves a gaping void where the truth should be.

Regardless of where we're from and what we believe, many feel that this is a special time of year. Indeed, with rampant violence taking innocent lives — from the Middle East war theater, to the quiet neighborhoods of America — if there was ever a time for a miracle, it's now.

While we must always hold on to hope, true peace can only be achieved through awareness and action:

"The future of our threatened world urgently requires the strengthening of a global public opinion, to resist and overcome the wrongdoings of oppressive local powers. This global opinion is being shaped and strengthened by Global Research, which provides an international audience for voices often too little heard in their home countries. A gift to Global Research is an investment in a hopeful alternative to our current disordered society."
