

IRAQ: Remembering the Atrocities of the Gulf War: 21 Years Ago. Calling for the Release of Tariq Aziz

By Denis Halliday

Global Research, January 17, 2012
17 January 2012

Region: Middle East & North Africa

Theme: Crimes against Humanity, Law and Justice

Today 17th January 2012 is the 21st anniversary of the attack on Iraq by the United States of America in what became known as the Gulf War of 1991.

It also became known and is since remembered for atrocities/war crimes committed by American military forces on Iraqi and other civilians departing Kuwait. In clear retreat with tank turrets facing backwards, Iraqi military forces were also enviserated by US war planes using weapons including napalm that produced horrific casualties such as the “crispy critter” ... a revolting americanism to describe an Iraqi tank commander burned alive.

The Basra road - a pathway of massacre became known as the Highway of Death.

As we now know, US enticement of Iraqi forces into Kuwait and the resulting destruction of Iraqi military capacity was long planned by Washington. Some half million American led forces were assembled with extraordinary haste in Saudi Arabia. All this was part of President Bush’s great plan to remake the map of the Middle-East to facilitate expansion and ease of US Empire building.

Coming on the staggering number of deaths and terrible damage of the Iran-Iraq War, this was the Bush dream to destroy Iraq and retard the further development of its talented people.

Tareq Aziz was one of the most conspicuous Iraqi globally visible spokesmen for a peaceful withdrawal of Iraqi forces from Kuwait. America dismissed all peaceful solutions and forced the UN to endorse the use of massive air and land violence. The terrible price paid by the people of Iraqi, the illegal and deliberate bombing of civilian infrastructure (water and electirc power) is now history.

Meantime, Tariq Aziz the man who brilliantly defended his country globally has languished in American and now Iraq incarceration. Aged and ill, years in solitary confinement after voluntarily giving himself up to protect his family from US forces in Spring 2003, this extraordinary Iraqi patriot now faces execution.

Surely, this is the moment for the Government of Iraq to recognise the national role of Tariq Aziz, demonstrate the superiority of its sense of humanity and finally release him into the arms of his family.

Denis J. Halliday, former UN Assistant Secretary-General

The original source of this article is Global Research
Copyright © Denis Halliday, Global Research, 2012

Comment on Global Research Articles on our Facebook page

Become a Member of Global Research

Articles by: Denis Halliday

Disclaimer: The contents of this article are of sole responsibility of the author(s). The Centre for Research on Globalization will not be responsible for any inaccurate or incorrect statement in this article. The Centre of Research on Globalization grants permission to cross-post Global Research articles on community internet sites as long the source and copyright are acknowledged together with a hyperlink to the original Global Research article. For publication of Global Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: publications@globalresearch.ca www.globalresearch.ca contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of "fair use" in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than "fair use" you must request permission from the copyright owner.

For media inquiries: publications@globalresearch.ca