The International Crisis Summit (ICS) is an all star team of scientists, doctors, lawyers, and activists united in a mission to help save the world. Please donate generously to support ICS in completing our mission. We are fighting for you and your family.

Here is the first official material I have to share from ICS6 in Japan. Myself and others traveled from around the world, joining Japanese scientists and leaders on a mission to stop the next generation of genetic experiments on humans: self-replicating RNA injections for COVID-19.

While we did not succeed in prompting a government order to cancel the licensing of these injections, which were scheduled to begin on October 1st, we have definitely inspired the Japanese people. Reports suggest that many are rejecting this experiment, and even nursing homes are refusing to administer the injections. The manufacturer has seen nearly zero sales and is now threatening to sue our Japanese colleagues for ruining their profits.

Please help support the work of the International Crisis Summit.
