Massive terrorist attacks were hatched back soon after the pretext of cinematographic ‘terrorist’ attacks in New York, Washington and Pennsylvania on September 11, 2001.

The state broadcaster in the UK pumped out the propaganda for these with all vigour and its usual guile. The people of Afghanistan were first in line, that winter bombing and invasion had been planned for some months before smoke billowed up from the Twin Towers.

Iraqi humans were to be next. Perle, Wolfowitz, Edelman, Bolton and other Zionists were sitting in our homes as bold as brass. People like Tom Mangold frightened the old ladies with stories about the nerve gas attacks on the Tokyo tube and how Sarin in a bursting light bulb could kill in seconds. ‘Free speech, fraternité, and democracy’ were in the mix, but only a small part of broadcasting time was given over to speakers who were against terrorism by states. They naively thought the Nuremberg protocols and the Charter of the UN had meaning in international law.

The psychopathic cabal in No 10 got the cogs turning in the Ministry of Defence, the Foreign Office and MI6. A ‘dossier’ was produced in September 2002 but it turned out to be a ridiculous cut and paste job of a PhD ‘thesis’ from LA. To laugh in the faces of those with any power of analysis is usual. And there were the anthrax attacks in the ‘land of the free’. Those were surely false flags, and lo, Perle claimed that they originated from Iraq.

The war machinery was gathering pace in spite of a majority of British citizens which tried quite hard to throw a spanner in the works. The smiling, paramount psychopath and war criminal Blair, was undeterred (image, right). A second ‘dossier’ was washed many times through the MoD and No 10 computers. Another psychopath and ex-Mirror journalist Alistair Campbell (image below) was the editor it seems. Saddam, the terrorist, could hit UK forces in Cyprus after a 45 minute order to launch.

This planned holocaust - the mass killing of humans by humans, as usual, gained it own momentum. A Danish freighter, the MV Barbara, had cast off 1st February from Torquay, Devon, with four Britons aboard bound for Palestine. (1) A symbolic fifty tonnes of food, medical supplies etc were in the hold. The purpose was to share our common humanity with our sisters and brothers in Gaza and to shout against the looming war upon the people of Iraq. As we steamed eastwards in the Mediterranean, the war and supply ships overtook us on their course for Suez. On one day the officer of the watch on our ship was interrogated five times by 'coalition' terrorists. (2)

On the 16th of March, brothers met to share blood. The trio who were flown to the Azores consisted of Bush, the capo di tutti capo, Blair and Aznar. (3) In fact, the attack had already started; Australian special force terrorists were already in theatre - as they say.

On the 22nd March, massed terrorists from 39 nations including Arab ones, streamed from Kuwait by land and by air, and with cruise missiles, into Iraq. They were not wielding AK47s but were tooled up with everything. They had come to liberate the nineteen million humans in Babylon. This would include liberation of their limbs from their bodies. The altruistic and ultimate aim was to usher in a golden democracy, as experienced in those 39 nations like Saudi Arabia, the UK and the US, and in the 'only democracy' in the Middle East, the Zionist entity. But the plan laid out by Oded Yinon was central.

A splinter of this terror came to Ali Abbas, then 12 years of age and formerly of the village of Zafaraniya, near Baghdad about 10 days after the shocking and 'aweing' started. (4) His arms were incinerated and the front of his trunk burned to a depth of an inch. His mother who was six months pregnant, his father, brother and at least 10 other relatives were incinerated by the coalition of willing terror. It had been reported that, just after midnight on 30 March 2003 and 10 days into "Operation Iraqi Freedom", a weapon or two weapons exploded. The village lay directly alongside the Al Rasheed camp. This had been an RAF base after 1922 from where, ironically and probably, the British had terrorised the native people. It also lay about 15 km from Baghdad airport. (5)

There had been a big battle for the bridgehead of Baghdad airport, the Special Republican Guard fighting the US 7th Infantry Division.

Three images of Ali - view from the side, view from his feet and Ali pictured in Kuwait after amputation of his arms and excision of the deep trunk burn.

If one looks carefully one sees :-

- That his head and neck, groins and legs are unblemished. It would seem that he was irradiated through a rectangular window aperture.
- That it is appropriate to describe his arms as incinerated. The bones of some fingers are naked and white.
- That the burn over the front of his chest and abdomen tapers off down each side of his trunk. If massive thermal or nuclear radiation had been applied en face the 'burning' would be like this. Given the much higher thermal capacity of the trunk cf with the arms, the same energy would have required a longer time to incinerate the trunk.
- He had not moved, otherwise there would have been loss of this symmetry.

Imagine his pain and the pain of then knowing that his mum and dad had been killed. What was the agent of this terror? The energy was either thermal or nuclear. A neutron shell was the most likely source. This weapon, developed by Samuel T Cohen at Livermore (6 & 7) has limited blast and destroys living tissue as opposed to material like concrete or steel. It does produce radioactive isotopes. This story, and others, which reports the removal of 'topsoil' (8) from Baghdad airport (and also from Fallujah in other articles) lends support to the strong belief that 'Enhanced Radiation' was used on the inhabitants of Zafaraniya.

Conclusion

This act of terrorism on this family went unreported. Ali's terrible injuries were presented as an accident of war. This was but a fragment of the conjoined terrorism of Himalayan magnitude. It has sat easily on the consciences of the Europeans and other nations from soon after Iraq was turned from blood and loss, into chaos, blood and loss.

It is noteworthy that although I have published these images several times, I have received only one comment - 'napalm'!

Je suis Ali Abbas. We are humanity, trampled to death by the European, and soaked in his hypocrisy.

I am a Palestinian (9)
