Ukraine, Britain, and Poland are creating a new format of political cooperation in Europe.

That’s according to President Volodymyr Zelensky, who addressed the Verkhovna Rada at an opening of the seventh parliamentary session on Tuesday, February 1....

“We are creating a new format of political cooperation in Europe involving Ukraine, Britain, and Poland,” Zelensky said.

British Foreign Secretary Liz Truss earlier said a tripartite alliance was being considered between Britain, Poland, and Ukraine.

The head of Ukrainian diplomacy, Dmytro Kuleba, also told reporters about the active work on creating such an alliance.

On February 1, Prime Minister Mateusz Morawiecki of Poland and British PM Boris Johnson will be paying a visit to Ukraine.

An article by 112 Ukraine entitled PM announces signing of declaration between Ukraine, United Kingdom and Poland reports:

A new regional format of Ukraine-Poland-United Kingdom cooperation will be created in the near future. Ukrainian Prime Minister Denys Shmygal announced this during a briefing.

“I hope that in the near future we will be able to officially create a new regional format of Ukraine-Poland-UK cooperation. In the face of ongoing Russian aggression, we should sign a trilateral document on cooperation in strengthening regional security,” Shmygal said.

The day before, it was reported that the Prime Minister of the United Kingdom Boris Johnson and the Prime Minister of Poland Mateusz Morawiecki plan to announce the creation of a new format of cooperation with Ukraine during his visit to Kyiv.
