

Leading Economists: Let the banks fail

By Global Research

Global Research, February 02, 2009

George Washington Blog. 2 February 2009

Region: USA

Theme: Global Economy

The government and Wall Street have endlessly repeated the statement that we have to save the banks, or the whole economy will be destroyed.

But leading experts – including the following people – say that letting the banks fail will help the economy recover:

- Nobel prize-winning economist Joseph Stiglitz
- Leading monetary theorist Anna Schwartz
- Highly-regarded PhD economist Michael Hudson
- PhD economist Marc Faber
- The central banks' central bank, BIS
- Many other experts

We cannot even start to recover from the depression we are in unless the free market is allowed to operate. That means that banks that made horrible business decisions have to be allowed to fail, and those that made good decisions allowed to succeed.

Source: http://georgewashington2.blogspot.com/2009/02/leading-experts-let-banks-fail.html

The original source of this article is George Washington Blog. Copyright © Global Research, George Washington Blog., 2009

Comment on Global Research Articles on our Facebook page

Become a Member of Global Research

Articles by: Global Research

permission to cross-post Global Research articles on community internet sites as long the source and copyright are acknowledged together with a hyperlink to the original Global Research article. For publication of Global Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: publications@globalresearch.ca www.globalresearch.ca contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of "fair use" in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than "fair use" you must request permission from the copyright owner.

For media inquiries: publications@globalresearch.ca