

Obama to seek $537 billion defense budget: Murtha

By Richard Cowan

Theme: US NATO War Agenda

Global Research, February 27, 2009

Reuters 27 February 2009

During his speech to Congress on Tuesday, Obama said, "For seven years we have been a nation at war. No longer will we hide its price." -Pentagon press secretary Geoff Morrell said the White House Office of Management and Budget will announce a supplemental war request - on top of the regular military budget - on Thursday when it unveils the Obama spending plan for fiscal year 2010. "There will be a war supplemental for FY'10," he told reporters at a briefing, without disclosing budget numbers.

WASHINGTON - President Barack Obama will sketch out a robust U.S. military budget for next year totaling $537 billion, a senior Democrat in the U.S. House of Representatives said on Wednesday.

Obama is scheduled to release on Thursday an outline of his budget proposal for fiscal 2010, which begins on October 1.

Representative John Murtha, the Pennsylvania Democrat who oversees defense spending in the House, told Reuters that "$537 billion will be the base budget" for the Pentagon.

But he added that he was not sure whether the $537 billion would include any money the Pentagon is expected to need to pay for the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan next year.

The Pentagon's base budget - not counting most war funding - totaled $515 billion for the current year.

Former President George W. Bush asked Congress for "emergency" funds for most of the money for the wars, leaving the bulk of the cost out of his regular budgets.

That arrangement has been criticized by Democrats, who accused the Bush administration of being less than transparent about the price of the Iraq war.

During his speech to Congress on Tuesday, Obama said, "For seven years we have been a nation at war. No longer will we hide its price."

Pentagon press secretary Geoff Morrell said the White House Office of Management and Budget will announce a supplemental war request - on top of the regular military budget - on Thursday when it unveils the Obama spending plan for fiscal year 2010.

"There will be a war supplemental for FY'10," he told reporters at a briefing, without disclosing budget numbers.

Pentagon officials have estimated they will need an additional $140 billion to pay for ongoing war operations and a major build-up of extra forces in Afghanistan.

Morrell said the budget package will also begin to shift war costs from supplemental spending to the Pentagon's base budget. The Pentagon's base budget includes equipment for soldiers, medical care and major weapons purchases.

Obama wants to bring an end to the Iraq war over the next 19 months or so.

The original source of this article is Reuters
Copyright © Richard Cowan, Reuters, 2009

---

Comment on Global Research Articles on our Facebook page

Become a Member of Global Research

Articles by: Richard Cowan

Disclaimer: The contents of this article are of sole responsibility of the author(s). The Centre for Research on Globalization will not be responsible for any inaccurate or incorrect statement in this article. The Centre of Research on Globalization grants permission to cross-post Global Research articles on community internet sites as long the source and copyright are acknowledged together with a hyperlink to the original Global Research article. For publication of Global Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: publications@globalresearch.ca

www.globalresearch.ca contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of "fair use" in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than "fair use" you must request permission from the copyright owner.

For media inquiries: publications@globalresearch.ca