

Rising Tensions on the Korean Peninsula. Clash in US-China Relations. Can War Be Avoided?

By Stephen Lendman

Global Research, May 04, 2017

Region: Asia

Theme: US NATO War Agenda

In-depth Report: NORTH KOREA

On Wednesday, addressing State Department staff, Rex Tillerson stressed “leaning hard” on China to pressure Pyongyang on denuclearizing the Korean peninsula “backed up by very strong (US) resolve...”

“So it’s a pressure campaign...to lean into people” to go along with Washington’s agenda. “We’ve told them we’re watching what you’re doing.” Punishment will be administered to non-compliers by sanctions and other means, he said.

His message was meant mainly for Beijing – on North Korea, trade and South China Sea issues. Friendly bilateral relations depend on playing ball with America was his message.

If Beijing doesn’t come down hard on Pyongyang, Washington could sanction its banks, commerce and industry dealing with the DPRK, he warned, adding:

“(W)e’ve got a lot of work left to do to keep that pressure on.”

Major Sino/US differences remain unresolved – notably on North Korea, trade and Beijing’s South China Sea activities.

During his confirmation hearing as Trump's ambassador to China, former Iowa Governor Terry Branstad said he intends raising tough issues with Beijing.

Asked if he considers China an ally or enemy, he said "it's a tough question," stressing its government's obligation "to play by the rules" – US ones, he failed to explain.

On Monday, Commerce Secretary Wilbur Ross said China's help on North Korea "trumps trade." On Monday, he infamously called Trump's April 7 aggression on Syria "after-dinner entertainment," adding "it didn't cost the president anything" – other than mostly civilian lives lost and flagrantly breaching international law, he didn't explain.

Separately on Wednesday, Pyongyang's Korean Central News Agency (KCNA) published a commentary titled "Refrain from making reckless remarks undermining the DPRK-China relations," criticizing Beijing for what it called "a wanton violation of (the DPRK's) independent and legitimate rights, dignity and supreme interests."

It defended the nation's nuclear program as its right to self-defense. It criticized "ignorant (Chinese) politicians and media persons" for their views on this issue.

"(T)he DPRK('s) strategic interests have been repeatedly violated due to insincerity and betrayal on the part of its partner," Beijing, it said.

Uncharacteristic tough talk about its most important ally!

It said

"China should acknowledge in an honest manner that the DPRK has just contributed to protecting peace and security of China, foiling the US scheme for aggression by waging a hard fight in the frontline of the showdown with the US for more than seven decades, and thank the DPRK for it," adding:

"China had better ponder over the grave consequences to be entailed by its reckless act of chopping down the pillar of the DPRK-China relations."

Pyongyang feels threatened by possible US aggression. It relies heavily on China as its most important strategic, political and economic partner.

For its part, Beijing wants war on the Korean peninsula avoided. It wants normal relations with all nations.

It's treading a delicate balance in dealings with Washington, Pyongyang and other regional countries – a major test for its diplomatic skills.

Can war on the Korean peninsula be avoided? Trump's rage for belligerent confrontations isn't reassuring.

Stephen Lendman lives in Chicago. He can be reached at lendmanstephen@sbcglobal.net.

His new book as editor and contributor is titled "Flashpoint in Ukraine: How the US Drive for Hegemony Risks WW III."

<http://www.claritypress.com/LendmanIII.html>

Visit his blog site at sjlendman.blogspot.com.

The original source of this article is Global Research
Copyright © Stephen Lendman, Global Research, 2017

---

Comment on Global Research Articles on our Facebook page

Become a Member of Global Research

Articles by: Stephen Lendman

About the author:

Stephen Lendman lives in Chicago. He can be reached at lendmanstephen@sbcglobal.net. His new book as editor and contributor is titled "Flashpoint in Ukraine: US Drive for Hegemony Risks WW III."

<http://www.claritypress.com/LendmanIII.html> Visit his blog site at sjlendman.blogspot.com. Listen to cutting-edge discussions with distinguished guests on the Progressive Radio News Hour on the Progressive Radio Network. It airs three times weekly: live on Sundays at 1PM Central time plus two prerecorded archived programs.

Disclaimer: The contents of this article are of sole responsibility of the author(s). The Centre for Research on Globalization will not be responsible for any inaccurate or incorrect statement in this article. The Centre of Research on Globalization grants permission to cross-post Global Research articles on community internet sites as long the source and copyright are acknowledged together with a hyperlink to the original Global Research article. For publication of Global Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: publications@globalresearch.ca

www.globalresearch.ca contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of "fair use" in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than "fair use" you must request permission from the copyright owner.

For media inquiries: publications@globalresearch.ca