Submissions

Global Research welcomes submissions of news and opinion articles. Sources and references should be indicated where applicable with a view to ensuring a high degree of accuracy. For web based references, hyperlink addresses of main sources [url] should also be indicated where applicable to enable readers to access key documents.

Texts must be carefully edited prior to submission. Contributors are requested to submit a final draft. Revisions and/or updates to the text of the article will not be added once the article is published.

Global Research has the discretion to edit articles and undertake minor modifications prior to publication.

While Global Research welcomes broad political critique and analysis, we do not publish polemics directed against individual authors.

Articles should always be sent in the body of your email message. With regard to style and format: single space default font, no paragraph indentation, indentation of quotes with "quotation marks", line space between paragraphs and paragraph headings, paragraph headings in lower case bold left justified. Endnotes are preferred rather than footnotes, which are not appropriate for internet publishing. Place it at the end of the article with the heading Notes (in bold).

The numbering of notes should be entered as text to allow for easy conversion, rather than encrypted as in a word document. Hyperlinks can be used to link to sources and references. Do not, however, attach hyperlinks to the numbering in the notes section. Please use Arabic numerals 1,2,3, rather than lower Roman numerals, i, ii, iii, iv.

The text of the submission should appear in default font in the body of the email message.

Please do not use CAPS or underline in titles, paragraph headings, etc.

IMPORTANT: As much as possible avoid unusual codes such as triple dot (. . .) to facilitate conversion.

The article should include a short biographical blurb (1-5 sentences) on the author at the foot of the article in italics, with the author's name in bold.

While shorter articles, including news items, are often published on the same day following their submission, for longer detailed feature articles, the editorial review may take several days.

Due to the high volume of emails, we are not able to acknowledge individual submissions or communicate editorial decisions. All articles published by Global Research will include an author's copyright note.
