

Tens of Thousands Protest Olmert Government

By Global Research

Global Research, September 10, 2006

arutzsheva.com/ 10 September 2006

Region: Middle East & North Africa

In-depth Report: PALESTINE

Tens of thousands of Israelis joined a protest against the Olmert government in Tel Aviv's Rabin Square Saturday night. The protest was under the banner of "State Commission of Inquiry Now!"

The protest was organized by IDF reservists as well as the Movement for Quality Government (MQG), a private group that has been running a separate protest alongside the reservists in Jerusalem's Rose Garden. The reservists have been calling for the resignation of the top government officials for their management of the recent war in Lebanon, while the MQG is calling for a state commission to examine the government's actions.

"The Prime Minister must open his eyes and realize that a state commission of inquiry is needed," the group's chairman, Eliad Shraga, said.

Also speaking at the protest were former Defense Minister Moshe Arens of the Likud, retired Meretz Party chairman Yossi Sarid, senior reserves officers and relatives of soldiers who fell during the war.

"It is unacceptable that those under investigation appoint the investigators," Arens told the crowd. "Only a state commission of inquiry will examine in a thorough manner the decision of the government in the last war in Lebanon. Never have there been such confusing and contradictory orders issued in the handling of a war."

"If we continue to remain silent, we will be hit with another bomb," Movement For Quality Government spokesman Shuki Levanon said. He added that Prime Minister Ehud Olmert had been invited to the protest, "to declare from this podium that he has heard the will of the people and will establish a state commission - but the chicken didn't even answer."

Though most protestors held signs accusing the government of not allowing the IDF to act strongly enough, some Meretz members joined as well - protesting the decision to go to war in the first place.

Though the rally's organizers number the participants at 40,000, police said 25,000 attended.

Musicians and composers took part in the demonstration as well. Nimrod Lev, Danny Linti, Miki Gavrielov, Pablo Rosenberg, Etti Ankari and Yankele Rotblitt, the composer of Shir HaShalom, the Song of Peace embraced by Israel's left-wing and sung publicly by Yitzchak Rabin just prior to his murder.

Shraga closed the rally by calling on those present to join the struggle more actively. "The struggle is not over. Don't go home and think you have done enough - speak out and join us at our protest vigil in Jerusalem," he said.

The original source of this article is arutzsheva.com/
Copyright © Global Research, arutzsheva.com/, 2006

Comment on Global Research Articles on our Facebook page

Become a Member of Global Research

Articles by: Global Research

Disclaimer: The contents of this article are of sole responsibility of the author(s). The Centre for Research on Globalization will not be responsible for any inaccurate or incorrect statement in this article. The Centre of Research on Globalization grants permission to cross-post Global Research articles on community internet sites as long the source and copyright are acknowledged together with a hyperlink to the original Global Research article. For publication of Global Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: publications@globalresearch.ca www.globalresearch.ca contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of "fair use" in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than "fair use" you must request permission from the copyright owner.

For media inquiries: publications@globalresearch.ca