

The Theft of Haiti's National Sovereignty

By Felicity Arbuthnot

Global Research, February 10, 2010
10 February 2010

Region: Latin America & Caribbean

In-depth Report: HAITI

"A tragedy is the imitation of an action ... having a magnitude ... with incidents which arouse both pity and terror." Aristotle (384-322 BC.)

"I spent 33 years and four months in active military service and during that period I spent most of my time as a high class muscle man for Big Business, for Wall Street and the bankers.

In short, I was a racketeer, a gangster for capitalism. I helped make Mexico and especially Tampico safe for American oil interests in 1914. I helped make Haiti and Cuba a decent place for the National City Bank boys to collect revenues in.

I helped in the raping of half a dozen Central American republics for the benefit of Wall Street. I helped purify Nicaragua for the International Banking House of Brown Brothers in 1902-1912. I brought light to the Dominican Republic for the American sugar interests in 1916. I helped make Honduras right for the American fruit companies in 1903. In China in 1927 I helped see to it that Standard Oil went on its way unmolested. Looking back on it, I might have given Al Capone a few hints.

The best he could do was to operate his racket in three districts. I operated on three continents." Major General Smedley Butler.(1881-1940.)

The earthquake in Haiti has been described as "catastrophic", with Port-au-Prince: " a capital in ruins, schools, homes, churches, historic buildings and businesses ... dozens and dozens gone."(London) Guardian. The death toll may be as high as two hundred thousand. Whole families have been lost, sometimes just one shattered relative survives, with uncounted traumatised, bewildered orphans in a country where broadly half the population are under fifteen. Hospitals are either destroyed, damaged or have scant or no medication, anaesthetics and surgical necessities. The dead have been buried in mass graves, unidentified, their names known only to their God.

Nature, it seems, has achieved in hours, what George Herbert Walker Bush, William Jefferson Clinton, and George W. Bush have done to Iraq and Afghanistan over nineteen years and nine years respectively (with a little help from Prime Ministers Anthony Charles Lynton Blair and predecessor, John Major .)

And as with Iraq and Afghanistan, it can only get worse. Fast. President Obama's response, having told the nation that America holds the people of Haiti in their heart, has appointed as fund raisers and "humanitarian envoys", the blood-drenched figures of Clinton and George W. Bush. Clinton's policy was to bomb Iraq massively on a whim, or seemingly as a diversion, when enveloped in potential scandals and bomb more quietly - often daily - in between. When he left office, estimates are that one and quarter million Iraqis had died of “embargo-related causes” and bombings – both entirely U.S., driven.

Clinton’s legal fund was reported as raising $ eight million, to pay his defence bills in the Whitewater, ‘Travelgate’, ‘Filegate’, Paula Jones and Monica Lewinsky Scandals – and then needed another $ three point nine million, for “... the first family to leave office without this tremendous burden”, said the fund’s executive director.

George W. Bush’s administration presided over the spectacular collapse of oil giant Enron; the illegal invasion of Iraq was estimated by Nobel Laureate Joseph Stiglitz at $ three trillion as his Presidency ended (and counting.) In all it might be thought there are those better suited to humanitarian and fiscal missions. Further, as William Blum in succinct detail points out, it was Clinton (1994) then George W. Bush (2004) who kept Haiti’s democratically elected President Aristide from power.(1)

Further, dwarfing George Orwell’s most surgical satire, Colin Powell told CNN that he would of course help out if he was asked. He was, he said horrified by the destruction of the palace.

“It hit me very deeply. I’ve been in that palace. I’ve been to negotiations in that palace and it’s a beautiful building,” Powell said. “To see it collapse – and when you realize what that meant to the rest of the city – it struck me deeply, and my heart immediately went out to the Haitian people who have suffered so much.”

“Negotiations”? Well, not quite.

“History will record the first black U.S. Secretary of State personally engineered the theft of the national sovereignty of Haiti, the world’s first black republic”, observed The Black Commentator, after the 2004 coup, which ousted .... President Jean-Bertrand Aristide, accusing: “... global American pirates (of creating a) new order which congeals like blood on the streets of Port-au-Prince ..... Such is Colin Powell’s horrific legacy ... Powell personally initiated the overt, criminally culpable act in the kidnapping of a head of state.”(2)

Ten days later they pointed out: “Powell returned to the scene of his crime last week to assure Gerard Latortue ... US-installed interim Prime Minister; ” We are with you all the way.”

Encouragement to a man (said) to have estimated it necessary to kill twenty five thousand people in the capital alone, to stop calls for the return of President Aristide. ‘What’s happening here, is what’s is happening in Iraq ...’ said Aristide’s attorney, Ira Kurzban. Latortue was dubbed Haiti’s Ahmed Chalabi.

Colin Powell is: “... the most powerful and damaging black to rise to influence in the world in my lifetime”, lamented TransAfrica founder, Randall Robinson. (3) Powell is another who finds it “unproductive to count the dead”, in the various incursions in which he has been involved. Hardly a man you would want on your side when trapped in, or scrabbling through the rubble, seeking those you love.

Enter eight thousand US paratroopers and the 82nd Airborne Division, “primary mission, airfield and seaport seizure.” Which they did – at lightning speed with personnel also taking over the Control Tower. The 82nd’s Base website helpfully further clarifies: “Within eighteen hours of notification, the 82nd Airborne Division strategically deploys, conducts forcible entry parachute assault and secures key objectives for follow-on military operations in support of U.S. national interests.”(4) They speedily set up “control points”, parachuted in to the grounds of the Presidential palace – deja vu all over again – “secured” that and “branched out around the city ... prepared to stay for whatever time is necessary.” You bet.

Five days after the earthquake, as aid piled up at the airport, and planes carrying more were turned away, Secretary of State Hilary “no child left behind” Clinton flew in, snarling all up for a further reported three hours (how many died in that time?) The US she stressed, was there as “a friend, partner and supporter” of President Rene Preval and would remain as long as assistance was needed. Haitians are unconvinced, with reports them warning of not to eat food from America, lest it be poisoned.

The 82nd Airborne’s, “support of U.S. national interests”, have included: Vietnam, Grenada, Central America, Kuwait and Iraq (1990-1991) Haiti (1994) Balkans (1999) Afghanistan (2001) and Iraq – again. In Fallujah, they occupied a school, from which they: “randomly opened fire on a crowd of unarmed demonstrators”, who wanted their school back.(London)Independent, 4th May 2003. Fifteen Iraqis were killed and seventy five injured. This led to furious townspeople taking their revenge on four Blackwater mercenaries, hanging them over a bridge. Which resulted in the U.S., army’s murderous assaults and semi-destruction on the ancient town.

After another shoot up, a deserter from the 82nd, Staff Sergeant Jimmy Massey, applying for refugee status in Canada, related killing more than thirty unarmed men, women and children, including a young Iraqi who got out of his car with his hands up. “We fired at a cyclical rate of five hundred bullets per vehicle.” (Robert Fisk, Independent. 1st January 2005.) “In every instance, our soldiers have shown discipline and restraint”, said a military spokesperson after the Fallujah incident. Heaven forbid they ever have an off day.

As the aircraft carrier Carl Vinson steamed towards the ruined Port au Prince (AFP 15th January) a Haitian lawyer remarked: “Haiti needed fourteen thousand doctors and the U.S., sent fourteen thousand soldiers”, noting that American planes were circling the island with loudspeakers telling people not to think of leaving and going to the U.S., as they would be “detained and returned.” (5) All heart. Wonder what language they were threatening in? Languages are not a towering forte of America’s finest.

The Carl Vinson (with six other US carriers also deployed) can accommodate eighty aircraft, has a flight deck of 4.5 acres, is as high as a twenty four story building. By January the 20th, it was reportedly distributing “a significant increase” of water, nearly three thousand gallons. This Nimitz class carrier, can de-salinate four hundred thousand gallons a day.(6)

Cuba and Venezuela have sent doctors and aid, Senegal has offered to resettle Haitians, poor African countries are sending money (Danny Shechter, as above) with the people of Gaza, under siege from Israel, collecting money and humanitarian aid. Unmentioned are four hundred Haitian doctors, who received free medical training in Cuba that are also tending the injured in their home country.

When Gaza was helplessly under Israeli blitzkrieg exactly a year ago, the BBC refused to broadcast an appeal by the (UK) Disasters and Emergency Committee. Rightly, they repeatedly have for Haiti. Ironically, the BBC took the opportunity, in Haiti’s tragedy, to team-up with an Israeli rescue-team – a nation traditionally burying people under rubble, not digging them out. They have also been accused of harvesting body parts of prisoners and bombing victims.(7)

The 82nd, however, seemingly find it hard to adapt to their new role as angels of mercy. (After “securing the airport” in New Orleans, they didn’t do exactly shine after Hurricane Katrina either.) “We normally do combat, people don’t realise we do compassion too”, said a spokesman. Nevertheless, it was reported that UN “peace keeping troops” – backed by U.S., soldiers – severely beat Haitians who turned up at the airport looking for work and/or offering assistance to unload cargo planes filled with humanitarian supplies. Flights were also being diverted, with Doctors without Borders, saying five of theirs had been and US forces also turning back a French aircraft carrying a field hospital, two aid-loaded craft from Mexico, World Food Program inbound and others.(8) Military aircraft were prioritised over humanitarian ones. Old habits clearly die hard.

Who will audit how many cargoes of refrigeration-reliant vital injectible medications, drips, anaesthetics, perished in the heat instead of saving lives, courtesy the “compassionate”?

Meanwhile, reports Jeremy Scahill, author of “Blackwater”, Florida-based mercenary company All Pro Legal, are arranging to offer their services, along with equally quaintly named outfit, given their stock in trade, International Peace Operations Association (9) Dyncorp and Triple Canopy have also offered their services, says Scahill, in a related interview. It is also reported that South African mercenaries are geared to pitch up. Blackwater (now re-named Xe, due to a little murderous local Iraqi difficulty) surely won’t be far behind.

Not to worry, at least Haiti has God’s representatives on earth there to help and spread the milk of human kindness. There is the US’s evangelical Pat Robertson’s “Operation Blessing”, which has teamed up with one Israeli group.(10) Pat Robertson, of course, said a Haitian “pact with the devil” had wrought this devastation on Haiti. The Israelis themselves must have taken up quite a bit of space at the airport: “An integral part of any aid delegation is a detachment of IDF (Israeli Defence Force) Spokesman Unit and Foreign Ministry Press Officers.”

The “painful truth” is that the Haiti disaster is good for the Israeli government’s tattered image and they intend to milk it for all it is worth, is the premise of some cynics.(11)

More of Christ’s would be representatives on earth, Baptist “missionaries” from Idaho, also seem to have unusual interpretations of His teaching, the: “Suffer the little children to come unto me and forbid them not ...”

They simply helped themselves to thirty three children and attempted to take them over the border to the Dominican Republic. “They were naive”, said their lawyer: “... they did not know they needed official papers..” to take children who were not theirs in to another country.

The leader of this unusual group of the well intended, Laura Silsby, reports The Independent, has allegedly been the subject of eight civil lawsuits and fourteen unpaid wage claims, with “a long history” of unpaid debts.” The paper adds: “The revelation will provide grist to the mill of children’s charities who have been highlighting the risk of child trafficking ...” Numerous well meaning couples in the West are prepared to pay: “.. as much as $thirty thousand, to adopt.”

The outpouring of generosity from across the globe, it seems, has been woefully negated by military mindset, ignorance, an American puppet government and perhaps other agendas, which designate the suffering of people, a month on, demonstrating for food and help, secondary. The long term agencies on the ground, who know the country, seemingly near hand tied.

Further, any emergency decree by the government would give “.. an enormous amount of authority, which in practice they would delegate to us,” U.S., Secretary of State Clinton, Hilary Clinton has said. Surely coincidentally, Unmentioned are four hundred Haitian doctors, who received free medical training in Cuba that are also tending the injured in their home country. Surely coincidentally, Pacificfreepress.com reports:

“The Jan. 12 earthquake was on a fault line that passes ... potential gas reserves, said Stephen Pierce, a geologist who worked in the region for 30 years for companies including the former Mobil Corp. The quake may have cracked rock formations along the fault, allowing gas or oil to temporarily seep toward the surface, he said yesterday in a telephone interview.

‘A geologist, callous as it may seem, tracing that fault zone from Port-au-Prince to the border looking for gas and oil seeps, may find a structure that hasn’t been drilled,’ said Pierce, exploration manager at Zion Oil & Gas Inc., a Dallas-based company that’s drilling in Israel. ‘A discovery could significantly improve the country’s economy and stimulate further exploration.’

...The Greater Antilles, which includes Cuba, Haiti, the Dominican Republic, Puerto Rico and their offshore waters, probably hold at least 142 million barrels of oil and 159 billion cubic feet of gas, according to a 2000 report by the U.S., Geological Survey. Undiscovered amounts may be as high as 941 million barrels of oil and 1.2 trillion cubic feet of gas, according to the report.”

There may be more vultures than doves hovering over the intensive care unit which is currently beautiful, battered Haiti. And those words : “Support of U.S National Interests” come to mind again.

Notes

1. http:// www.killinghope.org/bblum/aer78.html
2. http://www.blackcommentator.com/117/117\_cover\_haiti.html
3. Excellent overview: <http://www.thirdworldtraveler.com/Haiti/Haiti.html>
4. <http://www.bragg.army.mil>
5. <http://www.globalresearch.ca/index.php?context=va&aid=17440>
6. <http://www.navy.mil>
- 7 eg: http://www.huffingtonpost.com/.../swedish-article-suggestin\_n\_262787.html
8. <http://www.periodico26.cu> and news/websites
9. <http://www.thenation.com/doc/20100201/scahillg>

10. <http://www.israelconsulatela.org/index.php?...416%3Aisraeli...aid...haiti>.

<http://www.cbn.com/cbnnews/insideisrael/2010/January/Operation-Blessing-Teams-Up-with-Israeli-Doctors-in-Haiti/>

11. <http://www.care2.com/news/member/98613489/1369033>

The original source of this article is Global Research
Copyright © Felicity Arbuthnot, Global Research, 2010

---

Comment on Global Research Articles on our Facebook page

Become a Member of Global Research

Articles by: Felicity Arbuthnot

Disclaimer: The contents of this article are of sole responsibility of the author(s). The Centre for Research on Globalization will not be responsible for any inaccurate or incorrect statement in this article. The Centre of Research on Globalization grants permission to cross-post Global Research articles on community internet sites as long the source and copyright are acknowledged together with a hyperlink to the original Global Research article. For publication of Global Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: publications@globalresearch.ca
www.globalresearch.ca contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of "fair use" in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than "fair use" you must request permission from the copyright owner.

For media inquiries: publications@globalresearch.ca