In this episode of Grandangolo Dentro la Notizia, we report the complete interview carried out in Moscow by Jean Toschi Marazzani Visconti with Olga Zinoviev, head of the Zinoviev International Research and Training Centre at the Moscow State University, co-president of the Zinoviev Club.

When she was asked “Russia is at war. How do you see the situation?” Olga Zinoviev replied:

“It’s not Russia at war, but the whole West is at war against Russia. It was not our decision to make the life of the Ukrainian people so complicated. It is surely the decision of the West to destroy everything that determines our future. Western countries and first of all England, the United States, and their satellites cannot bear that we have our own life, they are even uncomfortable by our very existence, both when there was the Soviet Union and today when it’s Russia. The Soviet Union was destroyed in the early 1990s. And they thought they could adopt the same recipe to destroy life in other countries: Syria, Lebanon, and so on. They also adopted the same method towards the Yugoslav Federation. That’s why they bombed the Yugoslav Federation, an independent country. Alexander was telling me it was the beginning of a plan to destroy Russia. And he was right ”.

When she was asked what she thought about the position taken by the European Union, Olga Zinoviev replied:

“I fear for Europe, because it is gradually losing its independence already compromised from the beginning by the project of the European Union, which was actually the United States’ project to exercise their hegemony over Europe”

She then reiterated the concept;

"The multipolar world represents our world view. We have so many populations, we have so many languages. Why are we forced to think in English, why are we forced to obey as if drafted in their military, what does Washington want of us? We have different religions, different cultures, enormously interesting cultures".
