Below is a timeline of events today in Turkey.

Many thousands of Turks continue to protest the violence today despite a serious escalation of violent attacks by the police.

There are reports of many wounded from bullets and tear gas canisters.

The family of one man, Ethem Sarisuluk, who was shot by police, is trying to hold a funeral for him.

 Police are saying that the funeral is illegal. A 14 year old boy was hit in the head by a tear gas canister and is in critical condition. A university student was also injured and is in serious condition following emergency surgery today.

We saw last night that police were raiding hotels and taking any safety and health supplies they could find. Police removed masks, water bottles and helmets. They continue to raid the hotels, where people are taking refuge, today and remove supplies. There is a call out for more medical supplies including bandages and families are urged to place clean towels and clothing outside of their doors.

An infirmary was raided today. The patients are reported to be ok, but the infirmary is no longer able to function. Four doctors were arrested for providing care to the injured people.

The doctors put out a call to the World Health Organization and the World Medical Association. The WMA issued this letter today urging the Turkish government to respect the principle of medical neutrality which gives health professionals the right to treat the injured no matter why they were injured.

Please join the call to stop the attacks on protesters and to protect the health professionals' right to provide care. Click here for instruction to call the Turkish Embassy.
