Trump Derangement Syndrome is back in full-force. Since Donald J. Trump defeated the Democratic Party after years of indictments, harassment, an FBI raid on his Mar-a-Lago home and threats on his life with two assassination attempts and he still managed to embarrass the Democrats in a convincing landslide victory. The Democratic Party is in panic mode, they obviously destroyed themselves with their "lawfare warriors" with their obsession of "Getting Trump." They hate Trump with a passion. They hate him so much that they became somewhat mentally ill, there is no other way to describe it.

After Trump's election victory, liberals developed a mental disorder that is called 'Trump Derangement Syndrome' (TDS) which has some serious implications for those who hate the former President so much that it made them mentally ill. However, according to Psychologytoday.com, TDS is not considered a mental disorder:

Mental illnesses are officially classified in a dense and dry book published by the American Psychiatric Association (APA) known as the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders, Fifth Edition (DSM-5). This book contains 947 pages and lists hundreds of mental disorders; TDS is nowhere to be seen. Similarly, a review of scholarly databases such as MEDLINE and Google Scholar reveal no academic papers on this alleged syndrome. Officially at least, TDS is not a real, diagnosable, or treatable mental disorder

TDS should be considered a legitimate mental disorder. Since Trump was elected in 2016, the liberals became enraged with anger allowing them to commit violent crimes against Trump supporters.

There are several recent examples concerning TDS. According to CBS News

"A Texas man who wore a hat supporting former President Donald Trump punched an election worker who told him that wearing items endorsing a candidate are prohibited at voting sites, a sheriff said Friday."

The election worker was a 69-year-old man who was arrested on felony charges of assaulting an elderly person.

That was just one example, but it gets worse, even crazy because after Trump's victory, there were "crying sessions" offered by employers. Yes, crying sessions.

The Christian Post reported that

“The U.S. State Department reportedly offered therapy sessions and mental health services for employees distressed by President-elect Donald Trump’s recent electoral victory last week, including what one source described as a “cry session.” The post also mentioned that “An internal State Department email offered employees the opportunity to go to a one-hour event during which they were encouraged to discuss their feelings about the presidential election, according to multiple internal sources who spoke to The Washington Free Beacon.”

The irony behind therapy sessions after Trump’s victory is that psychologists will earn massive profits from victims of TDS. The NY Post reported that “Liberals in deep-blue New York City shocked and disturbed by President-elect Donald Trump’s election victory are flooding shrinks’ inboxes looking for appointments.” Talk about making money out of misery. “It’s a perfect storm for New York therapists,” said Manhattan psychologist Chloe Carmichael, who estimated she’s received a 15% spike in inquiries from patients. “It’s a repeat of 2016, where a lot of people feel really scared and traumatized and angry.”

TDS gets ugly, in fact, disturbing, The NY Post headlined with ‘Minnesota dad who ranted against Trump election gunned down wife, ex-girlfriend and his 2 kids in murder-suicide’ based on a report on a father who was distraught from the fact that Trump won the election:

A Minnesota dad who ranted against President-elect Donald Trump online shot and killed his wife, ex-partner, and his two sons before turning the gun on himself, according to authorities. The shooter, 46-year-old Anthony Nephew, had a “pattern of mental health issues,” Duluth Police Chief Mike Ceynowa said on Friday — one day after authorities found five people dead inside two homes in the city.

Authorities found Anthony Nephew’s ex-partner Erin Abramson, 47, and their son, Jacob Nephew, 15, dead from apparent gunshot wounds inside their home Thursday afternoon, police said

Another recent headlined from the NY Post, ‘Wife of prominent trans writer hacked father to death with ice ax after Trump’s election night victory: cops’ if this does not have TDS written all over it, I don’t know what is:

A space rocket program manager butchered her father with an ice ax on election night after a breakdown following President-elect Donald Trump’s victory — and was found smiling and clapping, covered in her loved one’s blood, cops said.

Corey Burke considered the bloody rampage — in which she allegedly strangled, bit and hacked her 67-year-old father in the $800,000 Seattle home they shared — an “act of liberation,” charging documents allege

It gets even more insane. Zerohedge reported that “Educated white liberal women appear to have lost their goddamn minds after the presidential election. Many have posted videos of uncontrollable emotional outbursts over a Trump victory.”

The story goes on further to explain that women are showing people online how to use a poison called ‘Aqua Tofana’ for male Trump supporters, “Others have made what appears to be terroristic threats, suggesting at the use of strong poison against men because they voted for the evil 'Orange Man.'" and that "Internet searches for Aqua Tofana—a potent poison created in Sicily around 1630 by a woman named Giulia Tofana, or Tofania, and historically used by women to free themselves from relationships by killing men—spiked shortly after the election results." This is obviously a serious issue in regards to the TDS phenomenon.

It is important to acknowledge how the mainstream media (MSM) has played a significant role in propagandizing people to which has led to a TDS crisis in America. Many people who suffers from TDS believe that Trump is the next Adolph Hitler, but as we all know, Trump may be many things, but obviously, he is not Hitler re-born.

Courtesy from the Trump team, a montage of video clips from members of the Democratic government calling for violence against Trump and his supporters:

This is just the beginning as the liberals are driving themselves insane over Trump's win. It will get worse as we will see more people effected with Trump Derangement Syndrome as the new regime assumes power in January 2025.

The American Psychiatric Association should seriously consider TDS a real mental disorder and declare it a national crisis or you will read more horrifying stories in the newspapers of people committing crimes against Trump supporters because of their different opinions and ideologies. TDS is a problem and it should be taken more seriously.
