

Trump Says He Doesn't Need a Fake Chemical Attack to Bomb Syria

By Kurt Nimmo

Global Research, September 12, 2018

Region: Middle East & North Africa

Theme: Media Disinformation, Military Militarization, US NATO War Agenda

In-depth Report: SYRIA

Note to readers: please click the share buttons above. Forward this article to your email lists. Crosspost on your blog site, internet forums. etc.

Now that the noninterventionist president appears ready to give the go-ahead to kill more people in Syria, the corporate script reading media is providing the sort of necessary propaganda required to get the American people in the mood for mass murder.

Syria's Assad has approved use of chlorine gas in Idlib: report
<https://t.co/gTX7NBDmaP> pic.twitter.com/YysFQC4nWp

— The Hill (@thehill) September 10, 2018

There is NO EVIDENCE of this. But we no longer need evidence, merely the word of “anonymous officials” and a crop of neocons who are demonstrable liars and deceivers in the name of state inflicted violence, what they call democracy.

Filming of staged chemical attack in Syria's Idlib begins, Russian top brass says
<https://t.co/KZ92pmoDnG>
© AP Photo pic.twitter.com/nEptCbScsx

— TASS (@tassagency_en) September 11, 2018

A few days ago, Trump's combative UN ambassador said the US will not help the Syrian people rebuild their country following its criminal destruction by CIA-Saudi Wahhabi murderers.

Nikki Haley to Russia: US will not "rebuild Syria" for Bashar Assad
<https://t.co/ce9uUurQQu>

— Washington Examiner (@dcexaminer) September 8, 2018

This has been the plan all along. It's the same treatment Iraq and Libya received, turning those countries into failed states. Nikki didn't come up with the idea. It was planted in her head by the Israelis and the neocons.

Here's Haley on September 7:

@nikkihaley: "The Assad regime has left behind a country of rubble. The atrocities committed by Assad will be a permanent stain on history."
pic.twitter.com/Tz54A7jKK9

— Fox News (@FoxNews) September 7, 2018

Hardly comparable to the countless tons of rubble—and the dead buried beneath—the US has produced on a practically non-stop crime spree since the Vietnam War. In fact, this has been the state of affairs since the creation of the national security state after the Second World War.

It's 2002 all over again, the same caliber of premeditated deception and lies are burbling up like acid reflux in the propaganda media, designed to convince us bombing Syria is the sane and logical thing to do in response to what are—and have been—fake chemical attacks, usually staged by the White Helmets.

Naturally, the most ardent neocons in Congress support the coming attack on Syria which will, this time, target al-Assad, his military, and his people.

We are about to potentially witness the wholesale slaughter of 100,000's of innocent human beings in #Idlib #Syria. Not rebels or terrorists, but children, teachers, merchants, bakers, taxi drivers etc., regular people who find themselves trapped in a war zone with no escape. <https://t.co/B5xO31oUbG>

— Marco Rubio (@marcorubio) September 7, 2018

It looks like an improbable chemical attack really isn't required as a pretext to turn Syria into the next failed state where ethnic and religious sectarian violence make sure balkanized states cannot challenge Israel and the United States.

Trump and Bolton have apparently decided it doesn't matter one way or the other if the White Helmets are now in the process of staging a chemical attack. It's not required.

The Trump administration is mulling whether or not to expand military strikes to include not just Syrian government forces but also the forces of #Syria's military allies in the conflict, Iran and Russia. <https://t.co/nZKZW60GGB>

— MintPress News (@MintPressNews) September 11, 2018

Bombing the shit—as Trump so eloquently promised—out of Syria will be complimented with a new crop of US soldiers and bases. Trump's Pentagon will stay there until the process of political and social disintegration is complete—and will (if Germany, Japan, and South Korea serve as examples) stay there indefinitely. That's how democracy works.

Trump Commits US to 'Indefinite' Military Presence in Syria
<https://t.co/2fbOIQcMfl> pic.twitter.com/lGnRO3kRDS

— Global Research (@CRG_CRM) September 10, 2018

For a large number of Americans, an organized kill fest soon to be committed in their name is far down on the list of concerns. In fact, if we can believe Gallup, there is virtually no concern about what this impending war crime will produce.

Latest Gallup poll shows less than 1% think the most important problem facing US is Russia (h/t @zerohedge@Laeeth parallels nicely with the 52 wk low gold pic.twitter.com/NdoPonNYhf)

— Sid Pathak (🇺🇸🇺🇸) (@sidpathak92) July 19, 2018

The “situation with Russia” is directly tied to Syria. Russia has said it won't permit the US to attack al-Assad, his government, military, and the Syria people. It has an armada of warships gathered in the Mediterranean. Putin and the Russians might actually do something this time despite increasing the odds of direct conflict with the US and its ultimate nuclear endgame scenario.

Of course, this “situation” is not about Syria. It's about another fictional tale—Russian influence of the US election.

Americans are simply not all that interested in war and organized mass murder perpetuated by a government in cahoots with the most pathological of partners—Israel and Saudi Arabia.

Most Americans are worried about falling out of the middle class, availability and affordability of healthcare, and the economy. Nuclear war with Russia and the horrifying prospect of the end of life on planet Earth isn't even a blip on the radar.

In a climate like this—where a majority of Americans can't find Syria on a map—war and misery are inevitable.

Like the character Tommy Ray Glatman in the film Dreamscape, the neocons believe they can do whatever they want in this emerging nightmare.

Recall the observation of Republican political strategist and former Nixon dirty trickster, Karl Rove.

“We're an empire now, and when we act, we create our own reality. And while you're studying that reality—judiciously, as you will—we'll act again, creating other new realities, which you can study too, and that's how things will sort out. We're history's actors . . . and you, all of you, will be left to just study what we do.”

An empire that may soon be reduced to radioactive ash.

*

This article was originally published on the author's blog site: Another Day in the Empire.

The original source of this article is Global Research
Copyright © Kurt Nimmo, Global Research, 2018

---

Comment on Global Research Articles on our Facebook page

Become a Member of Global Research

Articles by: Kurt Nimmo

Disclaimer: The contents of this article are of sole responsibility of the author(s). The Centre for Research on Globalization will not be responsible for any inaccurate or incorrect statement in this article. The Centre of Research on Globalization grants permission to cross-post Global Research articles on community internet sites as long the source and copyright are acknowledged together with a hyperlink to the original Global Research article. For publication of Global Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: publications@globalresearch.ca

www.globalresearch.ca contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of "fair use" in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than "fair use" you must request permission from the copyright owner.

For media inquiries: publications@globalresearch.ca