

Undermining Democracy in Latin America: El Salvador, Venezuela and Beyond

Global Research News Hour Episode 60

By Michael Welch, Mahdi Darius Nazemroaya, and Prof. James Petras

Global Research, March 29, 2014

Region: Latin America & Caribbean
Theme: GLOBAL RESEARCH NEWS HOUR

"Having lost eighteen of nineteen elections, their chances of taking power or replacing the government through electoral channels ...are virtually nil, and so what I think they've decided on as a strategy is to create chaos, insecurity, and especially engage in violence that cuts the link between the government and the people."

- Professor James Petras

LISTEN TO THE SHOW

Length (58:59)

Click to download the audio \(MP3 format\)

There is a long history of US covert intervention throughout the world in order to overthrow governments which seek to put forward programs or other initiatives which benefit their own citizens over the interests of US-based corporations.

So for instance, in 1953, when the elected Prime Minister Mossadeq of Iran moved to renationalize the country's oil reserves, thereby undermining the interests of the British controlled Anglo-Persian Oil Company, the CIA in concert with Britain's MI6 engineered a coup to oust him and install the brutal Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi. The coup plot included bolstering pro-Shah forces and organizing anti-Mossadeq protests. [1]

Likewise in Guatemala in 1954, the CIA plotted the overthrow of the elected President Jacobo Arbenz Guzmán following his initiation of socio-economic reforms, interpreted by the US as 'targetting directly against American interests in the country.' [2][3]

Perhaps most famously, the CIA directed the coup in Chile which toppled a democratic government and installed a brutal dictatorship in 1973.

As anti-government protests continue to wreak havoc in Venezuela, also no friend of US imperial interests, it is compelling to wonder if the world is witnessing a familiar pattern of foreign interference.

Direct military interventions are becoming increasingly unpopular, as witnessed by the failure to galvanize a planned US coordinated attack on Syria last year.

Is the US now implementing a covert 'plan B' in Latin America to achieve their foreign policy goals?

Mahdi Darius Nazemroaya is a geo-political analyst, award-winning author, and research associate with the Centre for Research on Globalization. He recently travelled to El Salvador as an international elections monitor to observe that country's election process. In our conversation, Nazemroaya talks about the links between the right-wing Salvadoran party ARENA, and the opposition in Venezuela. He also elaborates on the challenges of establishing self-determination in Latin American countries already so dominated by US economic and military interests. Likewise, he asserts the situation is more complex than the simplistic left-right divide embraced by other geo-political analysts.

James Petras, Bartle (Emeritus) Professor of Sociology at Binghamton University is absolutely convinced that the events currently sweeping Venezuela and its beleaguered President Nicolas Maduro are US-backed. He believes that should the protesters prevail, Venezuela could be on the path to fascism. Petras, also a frequent contributor to the Global Research website presents his analysis in the final half hour.

LISTEN TO THE SHOW

Length (58:59)

Click to download the audio \(MP3 format\)

The Global Research News Hour, hosted by Michael Welch, airs on CKUW 95.9FM in Winnipeg Fridays at 1pm CDT. The programme is also broadcast weekly (Monday, 5-6pm ET) by the Progressive Radio Network in the US, and is available for download on the Global Research website.

Notes:

- 1) BBC, August 20, 2013, "CIA documents acknowledge its role in Iran's 1953 coup"; <http://www.bbc.com/news/world-middle-east-23762970>
- 2) http://216.12.139.91/docs/DOC_0000919933/DOC_0000919933.pdf,
- 3) Doyle and Kornbluh, The National Security Archive, "CIA and Assassinations: The Guatemala 1954 Documents"; <http://www2.gwu.edu/~nsarchiv/NSAEBB/NSAEBB4/>

The original source of this article is Global Research
Copyright © Michael Welch, Mahdi Darius Nazemroaya, and Prof. James Petras, Global Research, 2014

Comment on Global Research Articles on our Facebook page

Become a Member of Global Research

Articles by: Michael Welch,
Mahdi Darius
Nazemroaya, and Prof.
James Petras

Disclaimer: The contents of this article are of sole responsibility of the author(s). The Centre for Research on Globalization will not be responsible for any inaccurate or incorrect statement in this article. The Centre of Research on Globalization grants permission to cross-post Global Research articles on community internet sites as long the source and copyright are acknowledged together with a hyperlink to the original Global Research article. For publication of Global Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: publications@globalresearch.ca www.globalresearch.ca contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of "fair use" in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than "fair use" you must request permission from the copyright owner.

For media inquiries: publications@globalresearch.ca