May 22, 2023 - Sudbury, Ontario - Garnet Harper died after being denied a kidney transplant, leaving behind wife and five children. (click here)

COVID VACCINE INJURIES .COM ✓

@Storiesofinjury

Garnet Harper was denied a kidney transplant because he wasn't vaccinated. No doctor or hospital in Ontario would perform the surgery, despite his two brothers volunteering to donate. Garnet tragically passed away on May 22, leaving behind his wife of 12 years and their 5 children. He was only 35.

While Garnet was near death in the hospital, the hospital asked his wife if they could harvest his organs when he died.

According to the Government, Garnet wasn't "worthy" of a transplant while he was alive, but he was worthy as an organ donor once he died?

Garnet was in need of a kidney transplant, which he was denied due to his vaccination status. Garnet's referral to a transplant centre was denied, meaning he wasn't even considered for a place on an organ donation list.

When he consented to begin dialysis, he was mistreated by the doctors and staff over masking rules, resulting in a botched surgery that landed him with a staph infection. After that, he was never the same. His health quickly deteriorated and he became septic, which in turn caused a serious heart problem, a collapsed lung, and temporary paralysis. He was told he was no longer a transplant candidate due to his poor health.

But Garnet was a fighter. Although 5 different doctors told him on different occasions that he should have died from one or more of those health complications, he overcame them all. He was clawing his way back to health. His lung was drained of fluid (4.5 Liters) and re-inflated to 80% capacity. He taught himself to walk again. He was gaining strength day by day. His kidney specialist was impressed by his progress, enough to prepare him for home dialysis.

Garnet was determined to find a way to get himself an organ, to get the treatment that he needed, and without participating in what he called “The Experiment.” He was fighting for his health, to pave the way for others who may not have been so strong.

Garnet never got to commence home dialysis. He died from a bleeding stroke in the middle of the night. Strokes are among the leading causes of death for people on long-term dialysis, as the treatment is very hard on your cardiovascular system.

Sheila Annette Lewis was denied access to an organ transplant by corrupt Alberta Health Services Executives and Judges in Alberta, Canada (click here).

In 2020, Sheila Lewis was placed on the waitlist for a donor organ, and in 2021, was informed that she had to be vaccinated against COVID-19 as a new requirement.

Having had C19 herself twice, she asked her doctors repeatedly for a C19 antibody test, but they refused. Expecting she had antibodies to C19 and therefore not wanting to subject herself to an unnecessary vaccination, Sheila declined to take the C19 vaccinations and her doctors proceeded to move her to ‘inactive’ status.

She then arranged privately to have C19 antibody testing and was found to have “extremely high” levels of antibodies to C19- higher than many people vaccinated against it. Her doctors, however, continue to refuse to provide Sheila the transplant she needed, still insisting she must be vaccinated.

Notably, the Alberta Transplant Program recently dispensed with C19 vaccination as a requirement for kidney transplantation, and in court, a judge has acknowledged that previous infection with chicken pox, exempts transplant patients from requiring varicella vaccination.

Sheila’s case is subject to a court-imposed gag order which is intended to protect her doctors from reprisal for their decision to deny her a transplant.

July 2022 – Alberta Court of King’s Bench Judge Paul Belzil ruled that state sanctioned murder of the unvaccinated is now legal in Canada, and is fully supported by the Courts.

Annette Lewis refused COVID-19 vaccine, removed from transplant list

In July, Court of King's Bench Justice Paul Belzil ruled that Lewis's charter rights were not violated by the mandatory vaccination requirement.

He ruled that the charter does not apply to clinical treatment decisions and cannot be used for doctors establishing criteria for organ transplantation.

There is a court-ordered publication ban on identifying the specific organ Lewis needs to have replaced, along with the names of the doctors and the location and name of the hospital.

Lawyers for the doctors, the hospital and Alberta Health Services vigorously disputed those claims.

"There's no need for the court to wade in on the safety and efficacy of vaccines," Daniel Morrow told the court. "This is a decision [the doctors] made for the patients in the program as a whole. There's no question the decision is sound from a medical perspective."

Morrow said that the physicians saw the impact of the pandemic first-hand, pointing to a near 40 per cent death rate in transplant patients who contracted COVID-19 before vaccines were available.

The lawyer representing the physicians pointed to the shortage of available organs and said a clinical team decides placement on the list based on who is most in need and who has the best prospects for short and long-term survival.

He asked the judges to reject Lewis's application in its entirety.

Alberta Justice Paul Belzil (Court of King’s Bench), lawyer Daniel Morrow who represented corrupt AHS doctors, and AHS lawyer Mark Jackson who represented AHS Executives who authorized the attempted murder of Sheila Lewis:

USA Hospital agreed to perform the transplant at a cost: (click here).

Lewis has challenged the vaccine policies of AHS (Alberta Health Services) and her transplant doctors, claiming that they violate her rights under the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms.

Alberta Court of Queen's Bench and the Alberta Court of Appeal ruled against her, stating that the Charter does not cover the specific Covid-19 vaccine policies. Her claims under The Alberta Bill of Rights were also dismissed. Recently, the Supreme Court of Canada declined to hear her case, exhausting all her legal options.

According to a GiveSendGo fundraiser, a U.S. hospital has agreed to perform the transplant surgery, but it comes with a significant cost. The fundraiser says Ms. Lewis needs $100,000 for testing before being placed on the donor list, and the surgery itself is estimated to cost an additional $500,000 USD.

After a recent interview on Viva Frei's Podcast, Alberta Health Services has agreed to a financial settlement with Sheila Lewis, but it may be too late for her to get the transplant:

Some good news to start the week!

I recently had Sheila Lewis and her attorney on to discuss her situation - being removed from the organ transplant list because she refused to get the Covid jab.

Her lawsuit for Charter violations was dismissed all the way up to the appeals court, and refused to be heard by the Supreme Court.

She had recently initiated a malpractice claim.

It seems like the prospect of that litigation, coupled with the massive public outcry, has resulted in a settlement. I have no knowledge beyond the update on her GiveSendGo campaign, and I understand that this entire case has been subjected to confidentiality and gag orders.

I don't know more than that, but that is enough. Scream loud enough and eventually people notice, and certain wrongs can be righted.

Godspeed, Sheila.

@DNSWilson

I previously shared the fundraiser of Sheila Lewis. Sheila was taken off the organ transplant list for being unvaccinated. Circumstances have changed and the campaign is offering to return the donation of anybody who doesn't wish to gift under the new circumstances.

The GiveSendgo was raising money to get Shiela the transplant in America. While the campaign does not say as such, I infer from the update that is no longer the plan. Sheila has now reached a kind of settlement of her malpractice claim against the doctors involved. It appears Sheila is under strict non-disclosure terms under that settlement. I infer Sheila has decided against the transplant and instead to use the settlement proceeds to ensure her family is adequately cared for, as well as her own care as she lives through what I suppose will simply be a terminal condition.

While she will still face prohibitive costs of living and care, the GiveSendGo campaign is offering to return the donation of anybody who doesn't wish to give in these circumstances. 🙄

My Take...

There is an extremist far left activist lawyer in Alberta, in the Faculty of Law at the University of Calgary, Lorian Hardcastle, with whom I've had many conversations.

I will let her own words show you just how extreme and violent she is.

This is her take on what happened with the Sheila Lewis case: (source)

Lorian Hardcastle, University of Calgary

Lorian Hardcastle, assistant professor at the University of Calgary's faculty of law, said she was not surprised by the ruling as the doctors' decision not to perform Lewis' transplant was a medical one which had very little to do with government policy.

"There is always debate about how the Charter applies when you get away from 'government' government, like a law passed by a legislative assembly, and into public entities like hospitals and universities," she said. "But this case isn't really an instance of establishing a policy, but rather one of physicians applying their clinical judgment."

Hardcastle said both the Court of Appeal and the lower court seemed to be concerned about the implications of subjecting doctors' clinical decisions to the Charter.

"Doctors have a private law duty of care which has served us pretty well in evaluating medical decisions for a long time, so there is that avenue that patients can always pursue," she said.

And it was interesting that the court seemed to be very persuaded by the efficacy of vaccinations, said Hardcastle. She noted that Lewis was not really an anti-vaxxer, as she had received inoculations for other diseases in the past but seemed to be persuaded by the misinformation regarding COVID-19 vaccines.

"And the court didn't seem to have a lot of patience for some of that misinformation, and that may signal an approach that the courts take in other kinds of cases where people don't want to be vaccinated, such as the employment context," she said. "The court used very emphatic language that this was just Lewis' choice, and she can change her mind. And that really sent a message that they are not just going to entertain these kinds of arguments at all."

Here are her key statements from her published article:

- "Court seemed to be VERY persuaded by the EFFICACY OF VACCINATIONS"
- Sheila Lewis "seemed to be persuaded by the misinformation regarding COVID-19 vaccines."
- "And the Court didn't seem to have a lot of patience for some of that misinformation and that may signal an approach that the Courts take in other kinds of cases where people DON'T WANT TO BE VACCINATED, such as the employment context."
- "they are not just going to ENTERTAIN these kinds of arguments at all".

Conclusion

These 4 Alberta Judges (Belzil, Schutz, Crighton, Pentelechuk) and 2 lawyers (Daniel Morrow – Bennett Jones, Mark Jackson – Field Law LLP), have made murder of the unvaccinated legal in Alberta, as of November 2022.

And far left extremist University of Calgary lawyer Lorian Hardcastle is telling us that they will be coming for thousands more Albertans in the future.

You see, these corrupt extremist Judges and lawyers are VERY PERSUADED by the EFFICACY of Pfizer and Moderna mRNA vaccines and they will literally sentence you to death if you don't WANT to get vaccinated, because you are MISINFORMED and they're out of PATIENCE.

I know my history and I know what happens when evil people in positions of power start to talk in these terms.

P.S.: In regards to Trudeau appointee Justice Pentelechuk, who sentenced Alberta transplant patient Sheila Lewis to die, Justice Pentelechuk has recently committed fraud in Court in my case, and has involved herself in a criminal conspiracy with Alberta Health Services Executives Verna Yiu, Francois Belanger and their AHS Lawyer Mark Jackson to threaten me and commit extortion against me and my family, to get me to drop my lawsuit, leave Alberta and sign non-disclosure agreements.

Currently, they are working extremely hard to try and have me silenced permanently.
