

“US Backed Plan to Launch Chemical Weapon Attack on Syria and Blame it on Assad Government”

By Patrick Henningsen

Global Research, August 26, 2013

21st Century Wire

Region: Middle East & North Africa

Theme: Intelligence, US NATO War Agenda

In-depth Report: SYRIA

‘Chemical Weapons’ media propaganda in US, UK is designed to hide the truth in Syria.

Revised and Updated

The Mail quickly pulled the story down within 24 hours, offering no formal retraction, but simply wiped it clean from their website, but we have a screen shot (below).

U.S. 'backed plan to launch chemical weapon attack on Syria and blame it on Assad's regime'

- Leaked emails from defense contractor refers to chemical weapons saying 'the idea is approved by Washington'
- Obama issued warning to Syrian president Bashar al-Assad last month that use of chemical warfare was 'totally unacceptable'

By LOURIE BOYLE

PUBLISHED: 18:14, 29 January 2013 | UPDATED: 18:16, 29 January 2013

Comments (2) | Share

Leaked emails have allegedly proved that the White House gave the green light to a chemical weapons attack in Syria that could be blamed on Assad's regime and in turn, spur international military action in the devastated country.

A report released on Monday contains an email exchange between two senior officials at British-based contractor Britam Defence where a scheme 'approved by Washington' is outlined explaining that Qatar would fund rebel forces in Syria to use chemical weapons.

Barack Obama made it clear to Syrian president Bashar al-Assad last month that the U.S. would not tolerate Syria using chemical weapons against its own people.

Scroll down for video

War games: An explosion in the Syrian city of Homs last month. It has been now been suggested that the U.S. backed the use of chemical weapons to spur international military intervention

According to Infowars.com, the December 25 email was sent from Britain's Business Development Director David Gouding to company founder Philip Doughty.

It reads: 'Phil... We've got a new offer. It's about Syria again. Qatar's propose an attractive deal and swear that the idea is approved by Washington.

'We'll have to deliver a CW to Homs, a Soviet origin g-shell from Libya similar to those that Assad should have.

'They want us to deploy our Ukrainian personnel that should speak Russian and make a video record.

'Frankly, I don't think it's a good idea but the sums proposed are enormous. Your opinion?' 'Kind regards, David.'

Britam Defence had not yet returned a request for comment to MailOnline.

Site: View:

FEMAIL TODAY

► BREAKING NEWS: Freddie Starr marries fiancée, 34, after three-year romance in low-key wedding. The comedian, 69, is currently on police bail.

► Remember me? Former X Factor singer Lucie Jones ships off to promote her new range of lingerie. Previously modeled for Wonderbra.

► Forget wine and salad, now it's all about the fast food! After Posh is seen in a clipper, Abbey Cadogan backs into a H&M hot dog. Anything Posh can do...

► Under pressure: Make-up free Beyoncé shows signs of being a working mum at Super Bowl rehearsals. Looked tired and wan as she arrived.

► Blackham... in an Arsenal kit? David joins with the Gunners as he considers his footballing future. The 27-year-old joined the team at their HQ.

► Not long now! Fierce Colton looks just swell as she enjoys a last bit of retail therapy before the birth. Deep in thought in West London.

► Kim Kardashian shows off her pregnancy curves in shimmering black as she gets straight back to the gym after Paris trip. Made an early start.

► Simon Cowell tops Richard Branson TV Star's list with fortune of £225million... but have you even heard of the rest of them? Six are names he signed.

► The ladies have banned Simon Cowell cheekily Jessica David Williams as he sits with her at DST wedding. Judges put on a show for

The Mail was later sued by Britam Defense, and forced to publish a retraction. The Guardian reported on June 26th:

"The Daily Mail has apologised and paid £110,000 in libel damages to a London defence firm it wrongly linked with an alleged chemical weapons plot in Syria.

Britam Defence Limited complained that an article on the Daily Mail's website Mail Online falsely accused two of its executives of conspiring in a "nefarious and illegal plot" in the Middle Eastern state "for enormous financial reward".

The article quoted one email supposedly sent between two executives at the company which claimed to show that Britam had agreed to supply chemical weapons to Homs for use in an attack. However, the emails turned out to be forged."

One of the original leaks which led to this brief, but buried story, was contained in the Britam Leaks, which detailed the alleged plan to be carried out which was said to have received a green light from Washington and was to be financed by Qatar.

Although a libel settlement was reached regarding naming the two Britam executives mentioned in the Mail article, it's hard to prove that the plot itself did not happen - and herein lies the problem with the secretive shadow state and its array of private contractors in both the US and UK.

The original source of this article is 21st Century Wire
Copyright © Patrick Henningsen, 21st Century Wire, 2013

Comment on Global Research Articles on our Facebook page

Become a Member of Global Research

Articles by: Patrick Henningsen

Disclaimer: The contents of this article are of sole responsibility of the author(s). The Centre for Research on Globalization will not be responsible for any inaccurate or incorrect statement in this article. The Centre of Research on Globalization grants permission to cross-post Global Research articles on community internet sites as long the source and copyright are acknowledged together with a hyperlink to the original Global Research article. For publication of Global Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: publications@globalresearch.ca www.globalresearch.ca contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of "fair use" in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than "fair use" you must request permission from the copyright owner.

For media inquiries: publications@globalresearch.ca